Remember, $[Pa]=[N\ m^{-2}]$ For all of your pressures today, use four significant figures for your answers. For example, if the pressure meter gives you 101.325 kPa you can write that as 101,300 Pa. Part 1: Atmospheric Pressure Setup In the top right hand corner, select the grid option for the simulation. Using the sliding knob, fill the pool so that there the water is 3 meters deep Make sure that the acceleration due to gravity is equal to $9.8\ m/s^2$ Click the pressure meter to control it.
